Top tips to Include Autism everywhere

Autistic people are all very different from each other. If you don't understand something or want to support someone, ask them what they need.

Capabilities can vary from day to day and hour to hour. Please don't assume what someone can or can't do.

If someone is having a meltdown or shutdown, give them space and don't judge.

If someone is moving in a way that doesn't make sense to you, they might be stimming. This is a repetitive movement for self-regulation.

It is really important to let people stim.

Respect that some people communicate differently.

The world can be really overwhelming sometimes for autistic people so give them more time to process information.
